The Pollock case attracted great attention a year ago. Mrs. Ellen Pollock, tention a year ago. Mrs. Ellen Pollock, wife of young Edward E. Pollock, brought suit against her father-in-law, Col. Alexander Pollock, for $50,000 damages for the alienation of her husband's affections. The case was tried before Judge Pryor and a jury in the Court of Common Pleas, and when a verdict for $37,500 in favor of the wife was rendered the large audience burst into a demonstration of approval, such as is seldom seen in a court-room. They cheered and applauded, and it was with difficulty that order was restored.

seidom seen in a court-room. In they cheered and applauded, and it was with difficulty that order was restored. In 1887, Mrs. Pollock, Edward's mother, engaged Ellen Mahony as her maid. She was a remarkably pretty girl, and had not been in the house long before gossip concerning young Edward's attentions to her was heard. He was then seventeen years old. Soon afterward came the announcement of his marriage.

Young Pollock and his bride began housek-reping in Harlem. A child was born, and several months later Pollock left his wife and took up his residence at Bloux Falls, S. D., where he began suit for divorce on the ground of desertion. Before the case came to trial another child was born.

Mrs. Pollock introduced evidence that he deserted her. She also disproved his allegation that he was not the father of the second child, but he secured his decree.

"I hope her sanity has been restored and that she may never suffer another attack of insanity, but I should not like to take the responsibility of turning her free. I am not a medical expert. I will send her to Middletown, and if you would like to get a writ of habeas corpus from some Supreme Court Judge. I will hold the papers till Wednesday to give you an opportunity."

Mrs. Fitzgerald was brought from the Tombs by Deputy Sheriff Brown.

She showed no emotion, and went back to the Tombs without comment.

No further effort to obtain her release is anticipated. Her friends are confident that the medical men at Middletown will give her her freedom immediately, pronouncing her entirely recovered.

CHEEK OF THE COAL COMBINE Flimsy Excuse Offered for Short

Supply and High Prices. The sale of anthracite coal at $4.50 per ton, delivered anywhere in New York or Brooklyn, will be continued for the present by "The World," and no consumer is compelled to submit to the extortion of the dealer's combine. The insolence and impudence of the combine in continuing the exorbitant schedule of prices in the face of the demonstration of "The World" that it is extortion, is antonishing.

The nerve of the combine in first declaring an increase in the prices because the bituminous coal miners are on strike and there is a consequent increase in the demand for hard coal, and then at the very same meeting and in the next breath deciding not to mine so much coal during the month of June, because it is Summer and the demand is falling off, is simply marvellous.

But no householder need suffer from this action of the combine. "The World" will fill all orders left at the New York or Brooklyn office for coal, and will charge only $4.50 per ton for it. It doesn't require much thinking to demonstrate that if "The World" is able to do this, retail dealers who haul coal only to their neighborhood trade, short-distance hauls, can afford to sell the fuel at even less than that, and that $5.25 per ton is simply robbery. demonstration of "The World" that it

Startling Denouement in Michae Mueller's Divorce Suit.

The suit of Louise Mueller for an ab solute divorce from Michael Mueller, of 347 Park avenue, was heard by Justice O'Brien, of the Supreme Court, to-day. Two marriage certificates were put in evidence. One showed that Mueller had married the plaintiff in 1878, and the other showed that Feb. 9, 1888, he had married a Miss Catherine Bilger. Mueller admitted that he had married Mueller admitted that he had married a second time without the formality of securing a divorce.

His lawyer tried to explain to the Court that Mueller thought his first wife was dead.

Justice O'Brien said that he thought the case one that should be called to the attention of the Grand Jury, as the defendant had committed bigamy.

He intimated further that he would send the papers in the case to the Grand Jury.

in a Brooklyn Court.

Mrs. Annie Dudley Gates, of Ridgefield, Brooklyn, and names George K. Gates and Alice S. Lipman, or Faulkner, as few weeks they have lived apart since that time.

She alleges that she heard little of Gates or his whereabouts until about a year ago, when she learned that he was married to another woman.

Gates, in his answer, admits that he married the plaintiff as stated in her complaint. He says that their relations were unhappy after the marrisge, owing to the opposition to him on the part of his wife's relatives. He says that in a few months they separated. Gates says that in 1859 he met his wife's father on Broadway, and the latter told him that his wife was dead. He said he believed the story to be true. He says he did not marry again until 1890.

Gates says that in that year a lifetong friend, Joseph Manning, told him he should marry again. Manning introduced him to Alice Faulkner, who lived in Second avenue, near One Hundred and Sixteenth street, New York City.

Gates says about the firse thing Miss Faulkner asked him was in relation to his property. After he consented to marry her, she wanted him to transfer his property to her, on the ground that he might have trouble and lose it if he did not do so.

One 6-foot Oak Extension Table The cows were purchased by Butcher given away free with every pur-Joseph Loewell, from William Wright, farmer, between Golden Bridge and chase of $50.00. Purdy station on the Harlem railroad. Wright is said to be the President of a benk in Summertown and the owner of a very large stock farm.

'Inspector Mars had his attention called to the cattle on Mr. Wright's farm some time ago, and when two of them were shipped to New York Saturday he followed and found they were sent to Mr. Loewell, who rents a room from Schwarzschild & Suisberger, at Forty-fourth street and East River.

He waited until the cows had been killed and the lungs tested by the Rabbi butcher and the quarters stamped Koiher. After that the meat was seized by the Inspector, and the examination that followed showed the lungs to be badly affect.d.

Inspector Mars reported the seizure of the beef to Sanitary Inspector Roberts this morning, who laid the matter before President Wilson. An investigation will be made to ascertain whether or not any other cattle in Mr. Wright's herd are suffering from the disease, and if so the attention of the State Board of Health will be called to the matter.

Inspector Mars insinuates in his re-Purdy station on the Harlem railroad. Special attention given to all outof-town orders. No extra charge for freight or packing of goods Price List Mailed on Application.

Board of Health will be called to the matter.
Inspector Mars insinuates in his report that Mr. Wright must have had some knowledge that the cattle were diseased and it is not, therefore, at all improbable that some legal steps will be taken to punish him.
During the last two months there have been three instances where Kosher beef has been condemned, and the health officers are careless in their examination, and that a closer supervision should be exercised by the health authorities.

poncemen were put on guard at the spot to warn pedestrians of the danger lurking there.

The walled sides of the well are easily discernible. notwithstanding the accumulated dust of years.

Police Inspector Williams says he remembers the well since childhood. Forty years ago a pump and trough stood over it, and many a time, the Inspector says, has he sat on the edge of it and let his feet hang in the water.

The flagstone, which went tumbling into the well, was four feet long and about thirty inches wide, and was near the curb, where thousands of people pass daily.

The heavy rain of this morning is supposed to have had something to do with the affair.

Comedian Thomas Q. Seabrooke has just been made a present of a handsome yacht called The Tabasco. A warm admirer and friend in Philadelphia is the giver. In a characteristic letter accompanying the present, this gentleman writes, among other things, to Mr. Seabrooke: "Tommy, there is one request that I have to make, and that is, if an accident should secur, hold fast to your hoat; don't attempt to swim ashore, no matter how close it may be, as that is invariably the way people are drowned. Those who exannot swim are seldom drowned. Bear this in mind." This is rather funny advice to give to O'Grady, the only man alive who ever saw McGinty at the bottom of the sea.

While the plaudits for Vesta Tilley, While the plaudits for Vesta Tilley, whose farewell night it was were still ringing through Tony Pastor's Theatre last Friday night, Manager Harry Sanderson sent for his advertising man and said: "This is a great night, Eddie, but we must not forget business. "The Kingi is dead; long live the Kingi" Get out some of those three-sheets of Bessie Bonehill and put them on the boards in front of the house before the audience goes out." And Harry smiled. the audience has held sneaked off to London the other day and is now there, looking for new plays. Mr. Mansfield, it is known, will not be seen next season in any of his old plays. He made this determination before he left. Just what dramatic material he has his eye on we can't see, but he must have something good in sight when he shelves his whole repertoire so summarily.
